Introduction.

of the present investigation. The historian, no matter how general and stories that cluster about the events of the past, seeks to ascertain the facts of their occurrence, and the manner of people they were in their private life. In the course of his old records are being examined, and his investigations on climbing tomb stones depicting some events examined with scrupulous care. The records of the past are used in compiling the records of the present. The records are to have permanent value, and the records are sought to give a reliable account of the events of the past. She has made a study of the records possessed by the various living members of the Stone family, and has used all other records available.

The records of the present representation of such a work, and the records are not only natural but most commendable. The records are the inheritance they have from the past. A study of the records and deeds is no longer a matter of record, we were digged or the rock records.

She has been content to dwell in those parts of the records, the name in America, but there are many records, were representatives are not to be found. The early emigrants who bore the name were persons of sincere convictions. They left their homes in the mother country because of religious persecution. It can justly be claimed that sincerity has ever been one of the characteristics of their descendants. Though some have held positions of trust and honor in the affairs of state, the majority because of religious convictions or from love of private life, have lived quiet, happy, useful lives in the retirement of their homes. If he be a philanthropist who "makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew before," these men were philanthropists indeed: for while some have sought professional or business careers, the greater number have always been identified with agricultural pursuits. Here their thrift, industry and intelligence are witnessed by broad acres and fertile fields.

Those who belong to this family will not find these statistics dry nor uninteresting. To them the names recorded on these pages will ever be incentives to a noble life. It is also hoped that this work may not be without interest to those of the larger world who realize that the real safety of a nation lies not in its armies and navies, but in the "quiet, well-ordered homes of its people," whence noble virtues spring. For when

"The tumult and the shouting die,

The captains and the kings depart,"

and the domestic virtues with obedience to law, truth to conviction, and purity of life, will remain as saving graces.

EZRA LEHMAN, Ph. D.

Preface.

The material contained in the following pages is the result of a long and laborious search for the pedigree of the entire family connected with the name of Worcester; it may be rendered difficult, and perhaps tedious, on account of the number of descendants and their dispersion over the West and South. Nor is it claimed for the accuracy of the facts here given, are they free from error in all their details. It is not possible to secure entire accuracy, and much time has been expended in verifying names and dates; but even with the most diligent search, there are doubtless errors and omissions. Some of the names were undoubtedly, as whole families have resided in the West and South, and are comparatively unknown here, but little information could be obtained, and what could be secured has been inserted, even though it is somewhat unsatisfactory and incomplete.

Many of the names are of a scattered data, many of which are not connected with the Worcester family; but it is hoped that the names of the Worcesters scattered throughout the country, gathered from every available source, will be found in the above and systematic plan. The names of the first three generations, exclusive credit must be given to the late Dr. M. S. Worcester, 229 Broadway, N. Y., a descendant of the first Worcester in America, and brother of Abraham, IV, 6. The names of the fourth and fifth generations, credit is given to the late Dr. M. S. Worcester, (died March 1, 1898), who kept a daily register for almost forty years, and thus saved much of the older data from oblivion, and which proved most valuable and indispensable to the present work; and suggested the present effort to collect and insert all available records, and complete the genealogy down to the present time. Much credit is due Annie Stouffer Frantz, daughter of Jacob, for collecting and arranging the records embraced in her father's journals, and for other valuable assistance.

It is hoped that the preservation of these memoranda in permanent form may contribute in the future to a more complete record of all the branches of the Stouffer family; a result which may be reached if those to whom these memoranda may come will communicate their defects to the compiler, together with whatever additional data they may possess, as a contribution toward a second and more complete edition. But whether this be accomplished or not, a more immediate result certainly must be a better understanding of the mutual relationship of kindred, who however scattered, are yet united to each other by the tie of a common ancestry and a common name.

Historical Note.

It is not my purpose, in the first place, to trace the origin of the name STOFFER. The root of the name is of course common to Stoff, meaning a steep hill or a cliff, or a bear or bear den. According to heraldic records of the sixteenth century, it is derived from the latter meaning of the word, the name, namely er, it signified a Copper Bearer, and the name was given to an official connected with the retinue of every nobleman who was powerful enough to maintain a household of his own. This Stauter was the collector of tolls, taxes and whatever revenue his lord might see fit to appropriate to his own use. As this position conferred influence and some authority, and enabled him to acquire some income for himself, it was an office to be much coveted. As retinues were numerous in those days, and as each nobleman or Swain had his cup-bearer, there must have been some 500 in Scotland, regarding the word as the title of the office.

The Stoffers, or rather family surnames, descending from the Stauters, do not appear in Europe until about the twelfth century, and even in those sections of the country, many more decades elapsed before they were generally recognized. But when they first began to descend, each man, of the many official Stauters of a family, gave rise to a family of Stautfers, all bearing the same name, but without blood relationship. This fact accounts for the great number of persons bearing that name in Switzerland at the present time, and they are especially numerous in the Canton of Berne. To which particular man of rank our own remote cup-bearer belonged, whether he was a Duke of Swabia, or a robber-knight, is a subject for conjecture only. It is sufficient for us to know that this is the most probable origin of the name as now applied to our family.

According to all the data available, the first known ancestor of the particular branch of the Stauffer Family included in these memoranda, was Daniel Stauffer, of Thum in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland. Sometime previous to 1650 he was driven from Switzerland through a persecution of the Mennonites by the Calvinistic party. He being a member of the Mennonite Church sought refuge in the Palatinate, and settled at Alsheim, a small village near Mayence. Here the family remained for some years until the country along the Rhine was ravaged by Marshall Turenna in 1675, and life became so strenuous that a number of the Swiss Mennonites in this section began to look elsewhere for peace and safety. Many of these went to Holland, and others who had been influenced and encouraged by the doctrine and overtures of William Penn when he was among them in 1672, accepted his invitation to come to Pennsylvania, when that province was granted to Penn in quitance of England's debt to his father, Admiral Penn.

3. STAUDLER (son of Peter) married Elizabeth, the daughter of George and Nancy, of the county of York, and started with her to the West Indies in 1717, at Georgetown, where he was employed as a physician. He returned to England in 1721, and was again employed as a physician in London. In 1722, he returned to the West Indies, and settled in Barbadoes, where he was employed as a physician. His children's settlement was in Barbadoes, and his children's names, before they emigrated to the Province of Pennsylvania, were, Daniel, John, and Elizabeth. He died in Barbadoes in the year 1727. But the evidence of his settlement in Barbadoes with King George's sons, Daniel, Henry, and Elizabeth, is not sufficient to establish the fact. His children's settlement was in Barbadoes, and his children's names, before they emigrated to the Province of Pennsylvania, were, Daniel, John, and Elizabeth. He died in Barbadoes in the year 1727.

5. STAUFFER (son of Magdalena Hess, of the same county; and of Peter Hess, of the same county) married Elizabeth, the daughter of George and Nancy, of the county of York, and started with her to the West Indies in 1717, at Georgetown, where he was employed as a physician. He returned to England in 1721, and was again employed as a physician in London. In 1722, he returned to the West Indies, and settled in Barbadoes, where he was employed as a physician. His children's settlement was in Barbadoes, and his children's names, before they emigrated to the Province of Pennsylvania, were, Daniel, John, and Elizabeth. He died in Barbadoes in the year 1727. form the subject of this Memoranda. There is no existing record of his family except that the issue was three sons and three daughters. In the spring of 1792 he removed to the vicinity of Chambersburg, Franklin County, Pa., where many of his descendants reside. In the same year he, with his two sons-in-law, Metz and Shetter, purchased a tract of land a mile east of Chambersburg from Patrick Vance; also a property adjoining from James Jack, of Chambersburg, in order to secure the water-right for a mill which Stauffer contemplated building. They paid four pounds and ten shillings per acre (824.78.) which at that time was thought to be a most extravagant price. Out of the two tracts of land they made three farms; one for Metz, and one for Shetter; Stauffer keeping the middle tract for the flouring mills, which he built about 1793, and which were operated by his direct descendants for ninety years; and from whom the present village of Stoufferstown received its name.

This latter from records by ABRAHAM STAUFFER, IV, 6.

I. I. DANIEL STAUFFER.

(I) DANIEL was born in Turin, Switzerland, about A. D. 1630.
He married Elizabeth, to whom he was married.

(II) HANS STAUFFER was a son of Daniel. He was born in Aarau, in the Canton of Muri, Switzerland. He married Kinetz Heiland, who was the daughter of Michael Resser.

He had the following children:

(III) 1. John.

(III) 2. David.

(III) 3. HENRY, married Magdalena Hess in 1735.

(III) 4. Alexander, married Gerhart Clemen; remained in Germany.

(III) 5. Elizabeth, married Paulus Fiedt.

(III) 6. Mary, Fiedt.

(III) 7. John, born August 6, 1715; 1738 married Katrina
Schnitzler, died 1760.

It is not definitely known whether John was a son or nephew of Hans; the records conflict.

III. 3. HENRY STAUFFER.

Born March 28, 1747; died 1784; married Magdalena Hess, 1735.

IV. 1. Elizabeth, born December 7, 1735.

IV. 2. Christian, born December 6, 1736.
